DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-9, 11-16 and 18-26 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-8 and 11-16 and 18-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Starr (US Patent No. 6,606,606).

As per claims 1-8 and 11-26, Starr discloses the invention as claimed. Starr discloses a system and method for integrating and consolidating information from a plurality of financial systems or financial service providers into single accounting systems and for reporting and transferring financial information in response to a user request. See the abstract. The system enables a user to monitor, track and review financial transactions. The system also comprises a software suite for enabling viewing and manipulation of multiple categories of aggregated data compiled from a plurality of external data sources and accessible through a single interface operated on a data-packet-network, the data sources available for direct network-access. The system comprises a plurality of modules, each module having a distinct display interface providing interactive elements for a user to view and manipulate data from individual ones of the plurality data sources. Applicant is directed to figure 2, column 2, line 50 to column 3, line 32.

The system further includes one or more of a calendar module having at least one display interface for enabling viewing and manipulation of time and date sensitive calendar data, a transaction module having at least one display interface for enabling viewing and manipulation of financially oriented account data, a portfolio tracking module having at least one interface for enabling viewing and manipulation of investment oriented account data, a networth reporting module having at least one display interface for displaying a solution oriented networth report compiled from the aggregated data, a bill payment module having at least one display interface for enabling viewing and initiation of payment action regarding current billing data and an account alert module having at least one display interface for reporting time and event sensitive account alerts related to changes in account data due to occurring events or pre-configured time parameters. See column 6, line 12-52 and column 9 line 20 to column 11, line 12.

The system also includes means for providing additional display interfaces launchable from individual ones of the plurality of control report modules the display interfaces containing interactive links to utilities for configuring the aspects of data display and for ordering transactions through the modules and rendering the network interface vehicle accessible to the user operating a remote data access device connected to the network. Applicant is directed to columns 9-11 of Starr.

Users access the system via the INTERNET using a personal computer, Web page or browser. Starr further discloses a database reporting software for accepting input from the software interface through individual ones of the control and report modules and for performing calculations, and ordering transactions based on the received input. Applicant is directed to columns 9-11 of Starr.

The aggregated data are personalized to an accessing user and limited to display in a personalized interface. See column 10, line 66 to column 11, line 12.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Starr (US Patent 6,606,606).

The financial system and method of Starr are discussed above. Starr does not explicitly teach an account-bookmarks module having at least one interface for listing URLs of the plurality of data sources. The system of Starr is an Internet based system containing a web browser and the ability to save and list URLs of the plurality of data sources. Having an account-bookmarks module as claimed would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide in the system of Starr in order to provide a quick storage of the URLs for fast and easy access of the data sources. Monitoring travel plans is not explicitly taught by Starr. It is noted that the system of Starr is directed to integrating aspects and financial information of a business or individual. The individual would certainly would like to travel for business or pleasure. Incorporating the management of travel information related to traveling plans or cost related to travel data in the system of Starr would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to do. The motivation would have been to track and monitor most financial aspects of an individual or business as such is the intended goal of Starr.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 1-9 recite a software comprising various types of modules for performing various types of functions. Software or computer program not claimed as embodied in computer media executable by a processor or a computer are descriptive material per se are not statutory because they are neither physical "thing" nor statutory processes. Claims 1-9 recite a computer software or various modules for enabling viewing and manipulation of aggregated data compiled from a plurality of external data sources. These modules are softwares for performing the various recited functions. These modules or software(s) as claimed do not define any structural and functional interrelationships with a general purpose computer for permitting the claimed functions to be realized. In contrast, a statutory claim would define structural and functional interrelationships between data structures or functional parts and a computer for performing the data functions to be realized. Thus claims 1-9 are rejected as being non-statutory.

The software suite as claimed does not recite as being embodied on a computer readable medium to be executed by a processor or a computer and therefore fails to recite a useful, concrete and tangible result.
